SNAKES & HEAT

WATCH OUT!!!

Now the hot weather has arrived it is inevitable that those dreaded moving sticks are about and a danger to our pets. Hopefully most areas you may walk are pretty safe, but be alert at all times, by thinking about when and where you walk with your dog in the summer months.

It can be a pleasant walk if you keep in mind a few simple strategies. To only walk your dog in the cool of the mornings before the snakes are out and about. Be careful when walking around near the river. Have the dogs on lead in these places, that way you have control if a snake should appear.

Clear rubbish from around your house, snakes love to hide in places where they can get warm and be hidden, until a curious dog comes sniffing around and that's when trouble begins.

If your dog does get bitten by a snake, try to keep calm and the dog as well, and get to a vet as soon as possible. The vet will want to know what kind of snake it was, so if you saw the bugger, describe it to your vet so as the right antivenin can be administered. It is a serious event and your dog may or may not survive, so it pays to be vigilant and take the time to walk in safer places.

The other danger in the summer is "THE HEAT". I cannot believe how many people still take their dogs to the shops and leave them in the car after all the publicity surrounding the deaths in cars that occur from over-heating even, for a short time on a mildly warm day. Leave your dog at home with shade and plenty of water.

Some tips for keeping cool are you could:

- ® put ice cubes in the dogs water, this helps to keep your dog cool & its fun for the dog.
- ® Freeze pieces of meat in water ice block and the dog will have fun licking the ice to get to the meat. Freezing balls of minced meat is another way of amusing your dog while it stays cool.
- ® Cool coats are a good idea for people trialing or showing in the heat
- ® If you have to take your dog somewhere invest in a grill for the back of the car or a crate so you don't have to leave your dog in the car without maximum airflow.
- ® If it's extremely hot outside allow your dog to come in for the benefit of the air-conditioner. If your hot so will your dog be hot.
- ® Watch for your dog overheating, Please don't walk your dog on the hot pavement in the middle of the heat of the day. How would you like to walk in bare feet on burning pavement. If you see signs your dog is panting very vigorously and looks like their going to collapse, they probably are. Wet a towel and hang the cool wet towel over their back, or get the hose and wet your dog all over, starting at the feet until they are cooler, then let them rest in a shady cool spot. Remember if you feel the heat, so do they.....Be Safe
